

Soul Finger featuring Ceasar

Julius Caesar is historically hailed as Rome's greatest leader. When an area performer named "Ceasar" takes the stage with his band, Soul Finger, like his namesake, in his own way, he too becomes the commander - on stage, that is.

For many live-music enthusiasts in the Southeast, the stylistic leadership qualities of the modern-day Ceasar are already a familiar entity on the bandstand. Like his predecessor, it appears this Ceasar is also on a mission - to spread his musical cheer to a diverse listernship of ages and cultures.

Donald Ceasar was born in the bayou of Louisiana, in the heart of Creole and Cajun country where his grandfather, Alphonse "Boisec" Ardoin, was a pioneer in the Zydeco music movement. Ceasar has been entertaining audiences of all kinds since the age of 6 playing drums for "Boisec's" band. Since then, he has evolved into today's consummate, multi-talented act performing on drums, harmonica, keyboards along with singing lead vocals and exuberant dancing which leaves one breathless after watching his high-energy performance.

Whether it's Motown Soul, Classic Rock, or the gut-busting, belly-rubbin' Blues, Ceasar is truly the "Emperor of Entertainment."

"Folks you just ain't gonna believe this guy dynamite lead vocals he's a show stopper!"
Columbia's Small Club Scene Magazine

"a live-wire of motion and energy... flashing his 50,000 smile... what he was born to do."
Dispatch News

"(should) make the likes of James Brown and Michael Jackson look over their shoulders."
Bluesletter

"Possesses the greatest positive energy I've seen on stage energizes any audience."
Bluesletter

"He possibly is the hippest entertainer in Columbia." Otis Taylor -State Newspaper, Columbia, SC

"Carolina's Cajun Connection" Star Reporter, Columbia, SC